For the Mumphis Angual 1 "NOBODY HURT."

A SONO FOR THE TIMES, Whit LI BY A COTTO Mister Abraham Lipsain, of recent renown, In great creed of the robels has just come to town; In place comb and that c p. 1 he a Scatchman begirt, He arrived at the White House, and "nobody hork." As the proxid on proper he now takes his place, Where the herons and statesmen, the prode of their ran Chure eat in their glory, the lights of their nation, Now sadiv dist answed by low esteriation. This Abram, to rival the between of yore,

Calls loud for an army by thousands of score; For the South's land and negroes he's on the alert, for it's "beauty and body," and "nebely hurt." Now the first of his tricks was the Sumter ball-play. Where he knew very wall he could not win the day ; But thought if his coldiers should full in the right, Their blood wantd the nation to battle incite; That Tunkee on Tackee would then join his cause, And "Long's she First" he the king and the laws, And to up to be the suriped fleg should be trailed in the dirt

All hands at the White Hopes are now fally drunk-Environ in triamph the Yankees are combin-All the North is aroused with their filing and drown All doodlesogs glass at the thought of a bigger, And each for such spoils will now just a trigger; Such a chance for a furture is better than trade, And "moboly hurs" is the promise that's made.

The old sleepy Dutchman has revised at the sight, And myshers and Hearans are arming for fight ; They prove their Durch courage as the banner unfo And the nest of their visting are any little girls. "Horrah !" save Old Abe, as he school the shout, "I tell you. Lieutenant, we're wiping them out! The St. Louis Dutchmen are morral dead shot, And somebody's kurt, my dear General Scott."

The interest increases; the Tankess have tome, And down on the border are limiting a home; The grand OM Dem mion has very good land, And honors and negroes for each garlant hand, character, the rehels !-- they'll give us the furth-are hiding and encaking round Great Bethel

Siring or he big gons, we'll give them a firf ; Never for, Lincoln boys, "there's nobody hurt !" "N body burt !" Why, three rebala can't fight-They are too few in number and worn in might; But the wild creay fools are returning our fire, And comm a politoness should make us retira. We'll tack to old Butler, whence we have come, The battle we've fought and the victory won; Though a thousand empanions are biting the diff, We'll stick to our motie: "Foure's nobely hart!"

Come up, my brave boys, if you want to see fon, There's nobody hort " and we'll go to Bull Renj "The a better facetion than Bethel, by far, And the lend and the newtons will put for the war. But the rebels were there, ko, and would not "disand the Yankee invaders were treated still worse. In flying the "pet lambe" have stripped to the shirt-"Oh, dwar," cries old Lincoln, "is any one hart?"

"Namedy hart?" and they go at it again, And send down their thousands to Manuscus plain. Catch the bold Beanresurd! 'tis a grand speculation, And carry the prisoner through the whole nation t A stilling a bead to see the great show, And the practite will pay all expenses, we know. To much sum a bird we surely ear't fail, By putting "a little fresh solt on his tall."

Now go it, ye doedles! Wa'd Tankes them, sure! With Beauregard taken the hattle is o'er ! Then on to the charge-we'll flod where the knave ! But, burner on betroof that david, Jolf Davis, Is right in the center-birrebel flag flying, And thousands of Yankees are blowling and dying ; While blooding and "yes they roll in the dirt,
